1. This memorandum contains a recommendation in paragraph 6 requiring approval by the DDP.
2. Mr. Paul Dickopf, President of the Bundeskriminalamt (BKA), a criminal agent of this Agency, will travel to the United States in September 1967 on official business. It is expected that a representative of the DDP/System Group and German Branch Staff officers who are known to Mr. Dickopf will participate in the briefings.
4. Expenses associated with this visit will be minimal, to include dinners and luncheons either at a downtown restaurant or at a staff officer's home.

PERSONALITY ANNEX - CARAVEL

CARAVEL was born 9 June 1910 in Muschenbach, Germany. He studied biology and administrative law at the University of Frankfurt/Main in 1928, in Vienna and Berlin during 1929, and again in Frankfurt/Main from 1930-34. In the fall of 1934, in order to avoid joining the NSDAP, CARAVEL voluntarily enlisted in the German Army for one year. Thereafter he continued the study of law, concentrating on criminal and police law. In February 1936 he joined the Student League (NSDStB) to further his career, and he became a candidate for the German criminal police. In 1937 he took the aptitude tests at the Police Institute in Berlin and in 1938 he enlisted as a candidate for higher criminal law courses at the University of Frankfurt/Main. From June 1938 to October 1939 he was in training with the criminal police in Frankfurt, then he attended the Police Academy in Berlin until 1939. After working in Frankfurt and Karlsruhe, he was transferred to the Abwehr in Stuttgart in 1942. Because of moral objections to the Nazi regime, he fled Germany that same year and spent sometime travelling with friends in Brussels. In July 1943 he fled to Switzerland. There he was interned for a period of time, then released to cooperate with the Swiss and American authorities (OSS) to work against the German Secret Service in Switzerland. In 1946 CARAVEL returned to Berlin to continue his police work, but because of this he could do nothing attained denazification. In 1948 he was heard in a Wiesbaden court and was cleared of all charges, and at the same time a public record was made of his wartime activities on behalf of the OSS. Shortly thereafter he was appointed to the position of Vice President of the West German Criminal Police (Bundeskriminalamt - BKA) by the Allied Military Government authorities, and is today the Chief of that organization. CARAVEL is the German representative to INTERPOL and has travelled to many foreign countries, primarily on INTERPOL business, and has made many contacts in police and security services throughout the world.

CARAVEL has actually been in contact with American Intelligence since 1945 and he continues to believe that some of the "democratic" Germany is dependent upon the United States. CARAVEL's motivation thus appears to be based primarily on idealistic grounds. However, since 1950 we have provided him with a small monthly payment supposed to cover operational expenses in our behalf, but which is primarily designed to give the case office a psychological control factor.

CARAVEL continues to receive requests levied by this Agency and he has provided many significant reports on particular subjects over the years. Unfortunately, he is greatly overworked in his position as President of the BKA and the amount of time he can devote to the fulfillment of specific Agency requests is frequently quite limited.
